PUBLIC LECTURE

DATE: THURSDAY 4TH JUNE 2015

TIME: 2.30 PM.

VENUE: KIBABII UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, MULTI-PURPOSE HALL

TOPIC: WASTE MANAGENT TECHNOLOGY, TURNING WASTE TO WEALTH.

PRESENTER: PROF. JEAN BONHOTAL, FROM CORNELL UNIVERSITY

Senior Extension Associate

Waste Management Specialist/Director CWMI in Crop & Soil Sciences for over 25 years. Education: composting food, manure, animal carcasses, compost quality/use. Research: degradation of pharmaceuticals in mortality and manure. Characterizing/developing beneficial uses for organic residuals. Research includes assessment of pathogens in composting systems found in roadkill deer, Johnes bacteria, Crypto sporidium and Giardia. Compost quality and use in turf, vineyards and landscaping, use of dairy manure solids as bedding, degradation of pharmaceuticals in carcasses and manure. Characterizing/developing beneficial uses for organic residuals.

ALL ARE WELCOME!!!!!!!!

Kibabii University College Research Consultancy and Extension Coordinating Unit